

- R. Steelman's advice to the O.P.A. is heeded, with the removal of price controls from shoes, hides, skins and leathers.
- Oct. 31—Price Administrator Paul A. Porter orders the closing of 1,642 price control boards on November 4, stating that "price ceilings do not remain on enough commodities to justify the expense of keeping the boards in operation."
- Nov. 1—More than 100 items including paper matches, paper diapers, farm machinery, library cards, index cards, egg case fillers, shells and explosives are freed from control of O.P.A.
- Nov. 3—Landlords of hotels and rooming houses are warned by the O.P.A. of new regulations required under the recent Price Control Extension Act. All transient hotels, residential or apartment hotels, tourist camps and rooming houses must register separately with the O.P.A.
- Nov. 4—In an attempt to offset the rising cost of linseed oil, all trade sales paints, those sold over the counter, are given price increases, meaning a consumer cost increase of 31 cents to $1.30 a gallon.

VENEZUELA

- Oct. 27—The people of Venezuela vote for a constitutional congress.
- Oct. 29—Incomplete election returns are announced: Accion Democratica, 988,457; Copei, 169,737; Urd, 51,174; Communist, 49,613. It is supposed that Accion Democratica will have at least 120 of the 160 assembly seats.
- Nov. 1—A counter-revolution against the provisional government Junta is suppressed in Caracas.

YUGOSLAVIA

- Oct. 11—Archbishop Aloysius Stepinatz, Roman Catholic Primate of Yugoslavia, is sentenced in Zagreb to 16 years imprisonment, and is deprived of his civil rights for five years.
